

John Burton BE (Hons), BA, MLitt, SMIEEE

John has over 40 years' experience in the telecommunications industry both in Australia and overseas.

His professional career began with Telstra Research Laboratories in 1974 which later led to a range of senior management roles.

These included roles responsible for decisions about national technology planning and involved commercial activities as the Director of Corporate Marketing and responsibility for the overall commercial and financial operation of the Telstra long distance network.

After a period with DSC Communications as the Director sales and marketing he joined KPMG Consulting becoming an Associate Director specialising in telecommunications.

Currently he is a Director of Manson Consulting who provides specialised advice and consulting services to the telecommunications industry.

In addition he is the Chairman of Spatial Vision Pty Ltd, a geo-spatial company that specialises in the use of digital technology to address environmental and business issues and he is a member of the Board of Netcomm Ltd. He is also the Victorian Representative for the Australian Telecommunications User Group (ATUG).
