

ROB NICHOLLS, CONSULTANT, GILBERT + TOBIN

Rob is a technology and business strategy consultant with Gilbert + Tobin. He is a communications specialist with a 20-year career in business, focusing on strategy, broadcasting and telecommunications. He has an extensive technical and regulatory background which he combines with commercial, finance and analytical experience. Rob's clients include BT, Vodafone Japan, PBL, the World Bank and emerging wireless operators.

Rob's experience in delivering services in emerging technology fields covers telecommunications, television and appropriate technology platforms. He currently works in Europe, the Middle East, China and South-East Asia as well as in Australia. Rob has published and presented widely and has an honours degree in Electronics and Communications Engineering from Birmingham University in the UK. He has recently completed a Master of Arts in International Relations at UNSW.